

Knowing what is trying to be done to L'Anse a L'Orme, hurts my family and I. My mother is doing just about everything humanly possible to help this park stay the way it is. She has been sitting in front of the computer responding to emails, filling out petitions and going to meetings about L'Anse a L'Orme every day just to try and save the little wildlife area. She honestly deserves to have this place kept safe. I know that my dog would definitely miss the long walks in the forest.

Destroying this environmental area is not necessary. Taking the fast way to an economical boost that compromises the environment is not a smart way to approach any situation. I can't imagine the kind of planning that went into this sort of development. There have been many solutions made for other development spots yet it seems so important to destroy the little bit of wildlife left in Montreal. The animals that live in the forest deserve to continue living there, instead of being forced out. On a larger note, global warming is in big effect and ruining most of our world. How can people see something as large as global warming, which started with little acts such as destroying parks and forests, and continue to deforest our world?

I can see how it would be difficult, for the people in charge of this project, to care about the future of the world as they won't be in it for as long as I will. They're most likely thinking that they won't be around long enough to witness the full affects of what they're doing to the world. I would like to have a nice future where my kids can take walks through a nice park with trees and animals instead of houses and cement. It is becoming increasingly difficult to save the green space that we still have. I hope that the right choice is made and that I don't have to fight to keep our world together.
