To whom it may concern,

Pointe-Saint-Charles is a limited community, the atmosphere is good, the people hospitable. The location is great for me at my age (80). I've been following the progress of Project 2175 for several years since the beginning. They have an elevator, which is good for me because of a mobility problem. It is along the canal for the tranquility, being close to nature, sit and read, or just watching the people. Also, the clinic offers transportation to and from, my church is there, my friends, family. Live in the point 20 years, left because lack of housing, my name is on the list since 2013.

Thank you for taking the time to read my opinion.
